Having a CAT in Space?

Cats are known for being super low-maintenance and a simple petting session could be easily handle on space.

High pet exposure early in life appears to protect against not only pet allergy but also other types of common allergies, such as allergy to dust mites, ragweed, and grass. (Marshall Plaut, chief of the allergic mechanisms section at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases).

Owing a cat in space will help to cope up with loneliness, lower down stress level, as the anxiety can be reduced y having a friendship with your pet. Thus decreases cardiovascular diseases and strokes by 30%.

Cat purring (20-140HZ), the most comfortable sound is associated with therapeutic healing ability on human bones and muscle as 18-35 HZ range frequencies have positive effects on joint mobility after injury, therefore it is essential needed to be on space with crew.
